result of this action:

How will students in the deleted program
be accommodated?

There are no students currently enrolled in the program.

How will funds from the deleted program
be reallocated?

We are deleting the current program due to chronic low enrollment. However, we plan to develop a similar certificate program in the future with a new name, focus, and director that will likely draw more students. We will use the funds for this new program. I have already checked with my college's Development office and they let me know that they viewed this as a permissible plan for the funds.

Program Goals and Objectives

Program Goals and Objectives
Over the last decade, nonprofit, business, and governmental organizations have been increasingly working together to address a broad range of societal issues. In order for cross-sector collaborations to succeed, future managers must possess an understanding of the diversity of perspectives and purposes held by organizations in the other sectors. Risks and challenges inherent in collaborations, including how success is defined, how power differences are managed, trust is built, and accountability assured, are critical in achieving mutually desired goals and benefits.

Learning Outcomes

Learning Outcomes
The Master of Public Administration and Nonprofit Studies program in the J. William Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences and the Master of Business Administration program in the Sam M. Walton College of Business are working together to offer the Cross Sector Alliance graduate certificate program. The program prepares students for a workplace in which they will be interacting with organizations from other sectors in joint projects or initiatives. Accordingly, students must understand the financial, accountability and general management challenges of the different sectors. In addition, the program also prepares students for work in different sectors and builds skills not addressed in stand-alone programs. In general, students will gain a fundamental knowledge of within-sector management issues, how those issues relate to cross-sector management and governance, and will be able to apply this understanding to practical scenarios.

Alice Griffin (agriffin) (02/24/23 8:34 am): Revised LON, including vice provost title and anticipated approval dates. Also changed degree code from program code to ADHE degree code. Revised effective date to fall 2023, as it is too late for spring 2023.

Alice Griffin (agriffin) (02/24/23 8:36 am): ATTENTION REGISTRAR: Please remove the Undergraduate Council from the approval workflow.
