	Description and justification of the request	The existing AFLS 3413H - Honors Proposal Development course is being modified to add components of research methods. Over the past decade, it has been noted that Honors students require more formalized instruction in proposal development and research methods. Adding AFLS 3413H - Honors Proposal Development and Research Methods as a required course to the Bumpers College (AFLS) Honors Program will promote student success in completion of the honors thesis/project and reduce one-on-one time required with faculty mentors. Other changes to the program are grammatical to update the Undergraduate Catalog. Justification included in description prior to system upgrade.	Change 80 to 90 hours of course credit completion required for deadline to have prepared proposal for study. Remove "in the Honors program" from the 1st sentence in Honors Curriculum section. Remove "as a body and" from 1st sentence of 2nd paragraph of Honors Graduation section. Minor housekeeping changes. The 90 hours completion deadline to propose allows students until the end of their junior year and completion of their thesis proposal development course requirement.
