2. As befits a liberal arts program, students completing the WLLC BA should develop effective written and oral communications skills, as well as the ability to apply the skills of critical thinking to problem solving.
3. Last but not least, students completing a WLLC BA should have developed at a minimum a basic proficiency in their language, including practical abilities in reading and writing, and in listening comprehension and speaking when appropriate, as well as a solid grasp of the structure and grammar of the language.

Learning Outcomes

Learning Outcomes

1. Demonstrate speaking and listening proficiency in the target language at the ACTFL Advanced Low level.
~~See CLSTBA.~~
2. Demonstrate the ability to develop a coherent analytical and/or research paper in the target language on an academic topic.
3. Demonstrate a command of grammatical mechanics and the ability to use a variety of sentence structures to express their ideas.
4. Read and understand every-day and literary texts in the language; analyze, discern, and argue issues of ethical, cultural and aesthetic values.
5. Demonstrate a critical understanding of the distinctive features of the target culture in its social and historical contexts.

Description and justification of the request

Description of specific change	Justification for this change
Adding a WLLC course requirements to reflect the Digital Humanities part of the concentration title. Identified a specific number of courses in the concentration that need to be CLST.	The proposed reconfiguration of the stand-alone majors in Classical Studies, Arabic, French, German, Italian, and Spanish into one degree program with concentrations in each of those areas aligns the department with other benchmark departments that have already transitioned to one degree with multiple concentrations. Numerous R1 institutions and eight SEC schools have created said combined

Description of specific change	Justification for this change
	language programs to align them with 21st century demands of globalization of disciplines such as engineering, health professions, social services, business, STEM, digital humanities, data analytics, and AI. Furthermore, this change strengthens the degree plan and increases opportunities to create attractive and innovative concentrations beyond the proposed offerings to support students' ever-evolving interests in cultures and languages. It also opens avenues for minor languages to pair with mainstream language programs, to collaborate with other disciplines, and to foster a variety of interdisciplinary options for students at the University of Arkansas. The concentration structure allows the program to be responsive and adaptable to the evolving needs of students and employers going forward.
